

Index

- agents, learners as
 - ambiguities in role of, 95–9
 - Bourdieu's perspective on, 59–64, 96–9, 166, 168–70
 - facets of
 - autonomy and active learning, 31–4
 - independence, 30–1
 - problem solving, 34–5
 - self-direction, 27–30, 32, 60
 - relevance of training materials to, 32–4
 - resources and support for, 35–6, 151
 - stresses faced by, 29–30
 - understanding broader context of, 165–6, 168–70, 180
 - 'voice' as indicator of, 17, 173–4
- anxiety, feelings of, 156
- apprentices, learners as, 3, 36–42
 - coaching in practical skills for, 36, 38–9
 - contrasted with experienced professionals, 36–9
 - historical perspective on, 39–40
 - nursing practice in context of, 36, 40
 - reflective practice for, 36–41
 - resources and support for, 40–2
 - teaching practice in context of, 40, 41–2
 - workplaces as setting for, 39–40
- assessment
 - anxiety about, 156
 - by assessors, 113, 178
- audience
 - for learners as performers, 43–4
 - at workplace social functions, 74
 - expectations of, 44
 - humiliation by, 49
 - learners themselves as, 98
 - relationship of learner with, 46
 - role as resource, 48
 - sustaining performance for, 47–8
- becoming, concept of see identity in workplace; learner as potential
- belonging, acquiring sense of, 65–99
 - as a key issue in current study, 6–7
 - identified by students, 66, 69
 - Bourdieu's conceptualisation of, 96–9
 - 'difference' as precursor to, 67–8, 98
 - gender issues in, 93, 94–5

- means of, 67–99
 - directed by workplace, 92, 95–9
 - gifts as, 67, 78–80, 86, 93, 95, 97, 99
 - greetings as, 67–72, 86, 93, 95, 97
 - induction procedures, 67–80, 92–3, 95, 97
 - initial tasks, 86–92, 94, 97–8
 - significance of dress as, 70–2, 80–6, 94, 96, 97, 99
 - workplace gatherings as, 67, 73–8, 86, 93, 97
- pre-existing advantage in, 151–3
- student agency in, 85–6, 92, 95–9
- variable success in, 85–6, 92, 93, 94–5, 98, 184
- see also* identity in workplace
- border crossers, learners as, 54–9
- challenges and opportunities for, 55
- hazards faced by, 55–7
- initial experiences of, 66
- interview process as barrier for, 183–4
- language as important resource for, 173
- problematic prospects for, 57–8
- resources and support for, 58–9
- sense of loss experienced by, 56–7
- work placements in context of, 58
- Bourdieu, Pierre
 - centrality of ideas of, 7, 18, 165–70, 181–2
 - concepts applicable to work placements, 59–64
 - 'a feel for the game', 151–3, 175
 - 'capital', 63–4, 167, 172
 - 'field', 63–4, 166–70
 - 'habitus', 61–2, 63, 96–9, 151–2, 175
 - 'practice', 60–2
 - preconstructed categories, overcoming, 10, 15, 16
 - interpretation of text, 10–11, 15, 17, 18, 23
- clinicals see nursing training
- committed presence, 18
 - demonstrated by supervisor, 111, 117, 161
 - value of, 125–6
- community, learners as new members of, 51–4, 60
 - acceptance of, 173
 - cultural aspects of, 51–3
 - language, 50, 53, 54, 126
 - importance of practical learning for, 39–40
 - initiation of, 67–99
 - importance of names in, 79
 - resources and support for, 53–4
 - vulnerability of, 87
 - see also* culture
- culture
 - corporate, 149
 - definition of, 95
 - dress as marker of, 71–2, 85–6
 - entry into new, 49–50, 95, 97–9
 - workplace seen as, 51–4, 63
 - role of language in, 53
 - see also* community, learners as new members of
- difference, identification of
 - between Australia and home country, 4
 - between university and workplace, 16, 67–8, 98, 156
 - between workplace and previous settings, 16, 67–8, 98, 156, 164
 - ethical issues, 111–12
 - gendered workplace norms, 93
 - in preliminary interviews, 22
 - levels of expertise, 35, 41, 171–2
 - personal and professional persona, 124–5
- dress, significance of, 70–2, 80–6, 94, 96, 97, 98, 159–60
- electronic resources see technological resources
- empowerment strategies of supervisors, 114–26

- commitment to task, 114–17, 125–6
- trust, 116, 119–26
 - professionalism, 124–5
 - recognition of ability, 119–26
 - respect for opinions, 120–4
- enabling trust, 18, 125–6, 161
- epiphanies, 8
- family support
 - effect of lack of, 150–1
 - international students' access to, 150–1
 - types of support obtained from, 142–50
 - see also* resources available to students; support networks
- gender issues
 - make up of workplace, 93
 - problems in categorisation of, 17
 - raised in other research, 12, 13, 17
 - support networks, 163
- 'habitus,' concept of, 61–3, 96–9, 151, 175
- identity in workplace, 65–99
 - as a key theme of current project, 64, 154–7, 165, 184
 - changing, as teacher, 28
 - creation of, 43
 - broader context of, 168–70
 - co-operative role in, 173–4
 - lack of equipment for, 48–9
 - naming as aspect of, 78–9
 - provision of assistance in, 86, 166–8
 - role of mentor in, 178
 - degree of control over, 96
 - dress as aspect of, 70–2, 80–4, 97
 - forced acquisition of, 49, 92
 - formulation of concept of, 21–3
 - not articulated in student interviews, 68
 - readiness to accept, 66
 - rejection of, 6
 - social identity as aid to, 50
 - struggle with, 9, 81–4, 92, 97, 98
 - transition to, 53–9, 166
 - difficulties in, 54, 56–8
 - see also* belonging, acquiring sense of; role in workplace, learning
- induction procedures
 - creating sense of belonging, 69
 - gatherings as component of, 73–8
 - gifts as component of, 78–80
 - greetings as component of, 68–72
 - inadequacies in, 95
 - initial tasks as component of, 86–90
 - lack of consultation with students in, 92
 - perceived importance of, 68
- initial phase of placement, 65–99, 100
 - challenges faced by students, 65–7, 98–9
 - learning to become competent, 66–7, 86–92
 - learning to belong, 65–86
 - dress issues in, 70–2, 80–6, 97
 - gender issues in, 93, 94–5
 - induction procedures, 67–80, 92–3, 95, 97–8
 - gatherings, 73–8
 - gifts, 78–80
 - greetings, 67–72
 - language issues in, 72, 93
 - negative experiences in, 70–2, 81–4, 90–2, 93
 - positive experiences in, 68–9, 73–81, 87–90, 93
 - resources provided in, 78–80
 - significance of, 94–9
 - Bourdieu's concepts applied to, 96–9
 - students' perceptions of difference in, 67–8, 98
 - tasks assigned in, 86–91
- international students
 - as component of students interviewed, 4, 21

- barriers to obtaining placements
 - by, 182–4
 - degree of family support for, 142, 150
 - difficulties experienced by, 102–6, 107–9
 - evaluation of supervisors by, 104–9, 161–2
 - friends as support for, 134–6, 138
 - language proficiency of, 104, 134–6, 156–7, 181
 - other studies of, 21
 - reassessment of assumptions regarding, 21
 - response to challenges by, 156–7
 - self-confidence of, 158, 161
- interpretation of text
 - theoretical approaches to, 7–18
- interviewees, background of, 4
- job interviews
 - job requirements not specified at, 1
 - key questions underlying, 6–7
- junior colleagues, learners as, 171–3
- key concepts
 - identity, 154
 - learning, 154–5
 - resources and support, 154–5, 158–65
 - accessing in workplace, 160–3, 164–5
 - accessing outside workplace, 163–4, 165
 - differing perceptions of, 175–6
 - initial perception of need for, 158–60
- language
 - issues for international students, 4, 72, 150–1, 156–7
 - difficulties with, 72, 132, 134–6, 156–7, 181
 - as capital, 169
 - as discourse, theories of, 13
 - as means of access to group or field, 50, 52–4, 126, 152, 173
 - as means of learning, 27
 - modelled by mentor, 39
 - professional, 39, 126, 156–7, 181, 183
 - need for assistance in acquiring, 181, 183
 - ‘lighthouse’ narratives, 7–9
 - significance of, 8–9
- literature survey
 - key images of learning, 23–64
 - organisational structure of, 23–5
 - phases in, 22
 - theoretical bases of narrative interpretation, 7–18
- novices, learners as, 171–3
 - author’s interest in, 6
 - Benner’s perceptions of, 7, 35, 171–2
 - challenges for, 46, 65–6
 - contrasted to junior colleagues, 172–3, 174
 - degree of trust in, 125–6
 - differentiation of experienced professionals from, 36–9, 41–2
 - effect of induction procedures on, 92
 - lack of studies of, 20
 - means of supporting, 38–42
 - need for articulation of role of, 105–6
 - preparation for students as, 178
 - prior experience of, 3
 - recognition of limitations by, 135–6
- nursing training
 - basis for assignment of tasks in, 90–1
 - reflective practice in, 34, 36, 41
 - supervision of, 101–2, 106–9, 119–21
 - descriptors used for, 101–2
 - inadequacies in, 106–9
 - use of trust in, 119–21
- peer support
 - friends, 133–42

- types of support obtained from, 133, 135, 137, 138–42
 - sources of, 129–42
 - workplace colleagues, 129–33
 - characteristics of, 133
 - types of support obtained from, 129, 132–3
- people as resources see resources
 - available to students; support networks
- performers, learners as, 42–51
 - difficulties faced by, 44, 46–7
 - problems with concept of, 50–1
 - resources and support for, 48–51
 - use of language by, 50
 - see also* role at work, learning
- pilot interviews, 21–2
 - usefulness of, 22
- potential, learners as, 25–7
 - process of ‘becoming’ for, 25–6
 - resources and support for, 26–7
 - ‘scaffolding’ to support, 26
- recommendations for change, 175–81
 - adaptation to individual needs, 177
 - identification of resources, 179–80
 - language support, 181
 - networking skills, 180
 - preparation for placements, 178–9
 - provision of mentors, 178
 - welcoming strategies, 177
- reflective practice, 36–41
 - approach to adult learning, 24
 - aspect of agenic learning, 27
 - coaching novices in, 38–9, 40
 - considering context of, 179–80
 - strategies for developing, 38–41
 - two types of, 37–8
 - use in nursing training, 34, 41
 - advantages of, 36
 - use in teacher training, 20, 33, 41–2
- resources available to students
 - as agents, 35–6
 - as apprentices, 40–2
 - as border crossers, 58–9
 - as junior colleagues, 172–3
 - as new community members, 53–4
 - as performers, 48–51
 - as potential, 26–7
 - as sojourners, 170
 - as ‘voices’, 174–5
 - central significance of, 2–3, 25, 64, 150–3, 154–5, 182
 - differing perspectives of, 175–6
 - effect of lack of, 5–6, 22, 108–9, 159–60, 164
 - gifts as, 78–80, 158, 160, 167–8
 - in the workplace, 3, 5
 - opportunity to negotiate, 177
 - outside work, 3, 5
 - people as, 3, 5, 35–6, 40, 48, 128–9, 180
 - family members, 142–50, 153, 163–4
 - friends, 133–42, 153, 163–4
 - workmates, 129–33, 153, 163
 - pre-existing, 2, 133, 156, 160, 165, 179
 - provided by supervisors, 126, 161–2, 164
 - technological, 2–3, 129, 162–3, 180
 - theoretical perspectives on, 165–70
 - use in self-directed learning, 27–8, 29, 30–1, 35–6, 60–1
 - usefulness in practice, 32–4
 - variation in, 155, 158–65
 - viewing learners in relation to, 25
 - see also* supervisors; support networks
- role at work, learning
 - alternative theorisation of, 39
 - author’s experience of, 1–2
 - broader context of, 168–70
 - challenging nature of, 98–9, 124–5
 - conceptualisation in dramatic terms, 42–9
 - limitations of, 42, 43, 44, 50–1
 - contemporary approach to, 3

- difficulties in, 1–2, 44, 46–7, 56, 81–4
 - conflicting roles, 81–4
 - lack of guidance, 104–9
 - framing questions regarding, 6
 - Goffman's ideas on, 42–9
 - images used in discussion of, 24–59, 170–5
 - learner as performer, 42–51
 - interaction with supervisor in, 125–6, 161–2, 172–3
 - lack of definition in, 73–4
 - relevance of dress to, 85–6
 - requirements for, 47–8
 - resources and support in, 48–50, 97
 - significance of language, 50
 - student as active agent in, 95–6
 - workplace as audience for, 43–4, 46–9, 74, 86–7, 157–8
 - see also* belonging, acquiring sense of; identity in workplace
- Said, Edward, influence on current project of views of, 18, 21, 158
- scaffolding
- interactive learning through, 26–7, 59, 174
 - see also* resources and support; supervision of trainees
- sojourners, learners as, 170–1
- characteristics of, 170
 - outsider status of, 173
 - raising student awareness of, 178
 - transition issues for, 171
- sponsorship, validity of concept of, 174–5
- strategic silence, 18, 112–14, 117
- stress, ability to handle, 127
- supervision of trainees, 100–26
- descriptive terms used by students, 101–2
 - nursing practice, 101, 106–9, 112, 119–21
 - positive experience of, 114–25
 - significant factors in, 125–6
 - strategies valued by students in, 112–26, 161
 - commitment to task, 107–9, 116–17, 125–6
 - ethical approach to work, 111–12
 - explicit leadership and support, 105–8
 - language modelling, 104
 - trust and empowerment, 114–26
 - teaching practice, 101–6, 108–11, 113–14, 117–19, 124–5
 - theoretical context of, 117, 119, 121–4, 125–6
 - unsatisfactory experience of, 102–14
- supervisors
- as assessors, 113, 178
 - crucial role of, 5, 39, 161–2
 - disagreement with, 109–14
 - effect of absence of, 103–9, 150
 - expectations of students by, 127
 - factors impacting on effectiveness of, 103, 109, 116–17, 128
 - greetings as task of, 68
 - student expectations of, 112, 114–15
 - terminology used for, 101–2
 - variable access to, 162
 - see also* supervision of trainees
- support networks, 127–53
- reasons for accessing, 127–8
 - significance of, 151–3
 - types of
 - family members, 142–51
 - friends, 133–42
 - work colleagues, 129–33
 - see also* resources available to students
- teaching practice
- critical evaluation of, 20
 - peer coaching, 20
 - reflective practice, 20
 - issues faced by students, 70–2, 81–6

- appropriate dress, 70–2, 81–6
- interaction with other staff, 70–1, 72
- professional manner, 81–4
- supervision of, 101–6, 107–14, 117–19, 124–5
- descriptors used by students for, 101–2
- positive experience of, 117–19, 124–5
- strategies employed in, 119, 124–5
- unsatisfactory experience of, 102–6, 107–14
- technological resources, 2–3, 129, 162–3, 180
- theoretical issues in this project, 7–18
- data organisation and analysis, 9–10
- epiphanies, 8
- interpretation of narratives, 10–14, 22–3
 - comparison, 13, 15–16
 - critical discourse analysis, 12–14
 - feminist perspectives, 12, 13
 - grounded theory, 16–17
 - protective governing, 16–17, 18
 - step-by-step approach, 12, 14
 - voice, 17
 - whole text, 11–12, 14–15, 16
- key images of learning, 23–64
 - Bourdieu's perspective on, 59–64
 - learner as agent, 27–36
 - learner as apprentice, 36–42
 - learner as border crosser, 54–9
 - learner as new community member, 51–4
 - learner as performer, 42–51
 - learner as potential, 25–7
 - usefulness of, 24–5
- lighthouse narratives, 8–9
- selection of concepts, 22–3
- transition
 - experience of loss in, 56–7
 - previous studies of, 21
 - problematic aspects of, 57–8
 - risk of marginalisation in, 54–6
 - to independence, encouraging, 29
 - to new role, pressures of, 48–9
- transition to work
 - complex demands of, 2
 - resources to cope with, 2, 5
 - support networks to assist with, 2–3
 - eased by familiarity, 49, 54
 - image of border crossing applied to, 58–9, 172–3
 - image of sojourner applied to, 170–1
 - need for support networks in, 128, 151
 - recognising placements as, 166
 - understanding challenges of, 45–6, 65
 - use of resources to support, 173, 174, 184
- trusting dialogue, 18, 121–4
- trusting revelations, 18, 124–5
- trusting space, 18, 119–20, 123
- voices, learners as, 173–5
- welcoming strategies see induction procedures