INSIDE OUT WRITINGS ON CRICKET CULTURE

By Gideon Haigh

In Gideon Haigh's latest book, one of cricket's finest writers turns his subject Inside Out, examining those aspects of cricket that distinguish it from other games, from the centenary of Sir Donald Bradman and the cult of the baggy green cap to the threat and promise of the Twenty20 revolution.

This is cricket not only as it is played, but as it is seen, run, commercialised, codified, promoted, politicised and also written about by others, with a detailed introduction to the distinguished literary traditions of which Gideon Haigh now forms part.

Praise for The Cricket War by Gideon Haigh

'A fascinating account in masterly detail of an extraordinary episode in Australian cricket. Highly recommended.'

— Peter Roebuck

Gideon Haigh has been a journalist for twenty-five years and a journeyman cricketer even longer. He has won the Australian Cricket Society's Literary Award five times, and the Chewy Onya Boot Award for the most not-outs in a season at South Yarra Cricket Club twice. He is the author of Game for Anything: Writings on cricket, The Big Ship: Warwick Armstrong and the making of modern cricket, Mystery Spinner: The story of Jack Iverson, The Border Years and The Cricket War. He covered the 2005 Ashes series for the Guardian newspaper in the UK. His other books include the award-winning Asbestos House, Bad Company and The Racket. He works mainly for the Monthly, the Guardian and Cricinfo, and lives with a cat, Trumper.
