SUNFLOWER A Tale of Love, War and Intrigue

By Colin McLaren

Based on the true story of one of our longest-serving Anzacs

THIS IS RARE, SOLDIER. SHE SEES DEATH ... BUT TO YOU IT WILL COME FOUR TIMES.

In a small town in outback Australia, railwayman George Bingham toils while dreaming of far-off shores and adventure. When the call goes out for Great War volunteers, he drops his worn mattock, leaves his socialite love and jumps on the first ship to stricken Europe.

As his war runs from Gallipoli to the Somme, larrikin George becomes 'Sunflower'. And as foretold in a prophecy by a Bedouin woman in the back streets of Cairo, he endures squalid trenches and immeasurable heartbreak. One by one his mates fall, until George stands alone. Striving to reclaim his humanity, he lands in the arms of a French nurse who heals his wounds and teaches him to dream.

A tale of love, war and intrigue, Sunflower tells of the redemptive power of hope and optimism in the hideousness of battle.

Colin McLaren was one of Australia's pre-eminent taskforce detectives. His memoir of his undercover experiences in the Mafia, published as Infiltration, is soon to be a feature film. He is also the author of the novel On the Run. Colin divides his time between Australia and Italy.
